A life-size equestrian statue of Captain Louis Edward Nolan is due to be unveiled near the Trinity Foyer (formerly Holy Trinity Church - the Garrison Church of the Victoria Cavalry Depot) in Maidstone, Kent. Dr Douglas Austin helped with the design of the statue (and its wording). The statue will cost £50,000 and was commissioned by Maidstone Council. During his life in Maidstone, Capt. Nolan lived in the barracks in Staceys Street and also in Lion House in Church Street. Editor's note - This event was originally scheduled for March 21st but was postponed. We will announce a new unveiling date as soon as it becomes available.
